

Senior Brooke Reedy brandishes the plastic bucket demolished in the final round of the all-team relay. The mishap occurred as teams raced to transfer water via sponge to a ring of buckets in center field (Photo by Ari Houston).

Erika Shellenberger talks with sponsor Emily Steinmetz following a win by her team in the obstacle course race (Photo by Erica Irish).

Ngun Dawn Sung holds onto teammate Van Bik Thawng as they watch the slip-and-slide race (Photo by Erica Irish).

Seniors rejoice as the winning teams are crowned by sponsor Jacqui Sheehan and her underclassmen assistants at the end of Mini-Olympics (Photo by Ari Houston).

Keelan Meyer, Alexandra Percy and Cameron Reed pose before heading into their first round of tug-'o-war (Photo by Erica Irish).

Senior Zaul Tapia waits in line to begin the all-team relay at the end of Mini-O (Photo by Ari Houston).

Henry Dawson, Clare Brennan, Nico Bravo and Andrea Olguin gear up for tug-'o-war (Photo by Erica Irish).

The final event of Mini-O posed a challenge to the already cold and worn out seniors: stand in a line and, using only each other's neck, transfer a tennis ball to the front of the line. Above, Madeline Stringer reacts to the difficulty of the task with friend, Julia Barnett (Photo by Erica Irish).

Falcons in the field:

Red Team reigns at Mini-O

Seniors Sui Zathang, Zo Sang Liana, Joseph Uk, Lian Hnin Thang, Van Bik Thawng, Sui Men Lungtam, Par Hluan Tial, Ngun Dawn Sung, Cung Mawi (Mawite) and Bawisung Tluangneh celebrate their victory as the leading team in the Mini-O field events. The ten students showed off their speed, strength, agility and a fun-loving nature as they barreled through each round of the chilly 2017 Mini-Olympics (Photo by Ari Houston).

Maryam Mohammed makes her entrance onto the PMMS fields with her team in pursuit (Photo by Ari Houston).

Matthew McCauley catapults through the slip-'n-slide portion of the obstacle course (Photo by Ari Houston).

Rebecca Parks keeps her balance in the wheelbarrow obstacle (Photo by Ari Houston).

Friends Tristan Bustos and Madison Keatts shelter each other from the cold (Photo by Ari Houston).

Brian Carpenter laughs after losing in tug-'o-war (Photo by Erica Irish).

Sasha Kovalska stretches her legs in advance of the all-team relay (Photo by Erica Irish).

David Jackson carries Halie Boyce to the finish line (Photo by Erica Irish).